Nationals Lose Second Game to Mackmen When They Bunch Hits Off Johnson

Mackmen Beat Nationals By Hitting Johnson Hard

Scott Perry Held Griffmen Safe All the Way in His Second Game of the Season in American League.

By JOHN A. DUGAN.

Connie Mack's Slumberland crew came to life yesterday at the Florida avenue bailiwick and hung up their first victory of the 1918 season at the expense of Griff's Nationals, with Walter Johnson on the at the Augusta camp, which insists hill. By the way of a one-inning rally the Mackmen pushed across on still sticking by him. This injured enough counters to set back Griff's hired men by a 5-to-1 count.

Scott Perry, who pastimed for a short while last spring with Fred Mitchell's Chicago Cubs, was given his second chance in the A's uniform yesterday when he drew the assignment against the Smokeball King. Johnson was not at his best, as these reconstructed Mackmen had pecked away at his offerings all the way in the lively going and at ing out in the right-field bull pen. the halfway pole, in the sixth, staged an old-fashioned batting rally that counted five markers for the Quakers.

Perkins' blow in the third, followed by Perry's sacrifice, was the with the Nationals during the batting only threat up until the fifth, when five base blows, two errors and two stolen bases netted the visitors five tallies.

The Nationals scored in the fifthe when Frank Schulte drew free transportation with one down. Lavan hit to right field and Schuite haited at the midway cushion. Ainsmith popped out, but Johnson lifted a high fly back of second. Shannon camped under this Texas leaguer, but he pulied the butter-finger stunt and Schulte dented the plate. In the Nationals sixth Milan drew a base on balls and Shanks doubled down the right-field line, but Judge was not there with the punch to deliver. Again in the seventh with one down Lavan was passed and Ansmith hit, but Johnon efforts resulted in a two-ply killer. The nightmare staged by the Mack-tnen for Johnson's benefit came in the sixth, after Perry and Jamieson had retired. Kopp hit to left and pulled up at third on Gardiner's punch to right field. Burns followed with a blow in the same direction which a blow in the same direction which scored Kopp and placed Gardiner at third. Burns went down on the first ball pitched and Gardiner romped to the plate on Foster's boot of Ainsmith's peg. Walker then shoved though the real punch of the inning by doubling to left scoring Burns. Walker went to third on the throw the Schouler was passed and both scored when Dugan crashed
